Paris, Jan. 28.—The flood prospects grew black again this morning. The temperature rose during the night and the wind veered to the south-west, sweeping the flooded sections from a new gale. A heavy rain was falling at day-break today with prospects of another day of horror.

The Seine continued to rise all day and with it came more bursting of sewers and undermining of streets with the weakening of the foundations of buildings. There is small prospect of any relief.

That within the next twenty-four hours the suffering of the poor of the city will be increased almost to a stage of starvation is now certain and serious disturbances are anticipated.

The authorities have taken every precaution to prevent more from forming and looting the valuable government and private buildings which have been abandoned by their occupants.

From the whole valley of the Seine comes reports of villages and even small cities being wiped out of existence and the refuse from their places is now appearing in Paris and its environs.

Plague and pestilence are sure to follow, even if the flood is stayed at the present high water mark and the loss of life will be higher than in any previous period following the receding of the flood.

From all parts of the civilized globe come offers of aid, both financial and for food and workers. Thus far the local government have been able to handle affairs, but it is probable that outside aid will be accepted later.

STRICKEN BLIND IN CHICAGO RESTAURANT

Marshall Woman Then Suddenly Regains Her Sight Two Weeks Later.

Marshall, Jan. 28.—To be suddenly stricken blind and remain so for a period of two weeks and then to suddenly have vision restored was the unusual experience of Miss Margaret Dierhoff whose home is in this city and who has been employed in Chicago for some time.

She was stricken totally blind two weeks ago while eating at a restaurant. Her parents were called to Chicago and were overjoyed when suddenly, as if by magic, her sight was restored.

Smith was 45 years old. He was a stationery engineer and lived at Columbus, Wis.

WANT CLOSER UNION AMONG THE GROWERS

Texas Cotton Planters Wish To Unite and Become Independent Of Outside Financial Influences.

Waco, Texas, Jan. 28.—A large and representative attendance marked the opening here today of the midwinter meeting of the Texas Cotton Growers' association. The meeting will last two days and will be devoted chiefly to the discussion of the necessity for a closer union among the cotton growers and others interested in the industry in order that the planters may be made independent of outside financial influences in the handling and marketing of their crop. Other questions, such as better cultural methods and a comprehensive system of varietal selection, will also receive attention.

LIBERALS TO HAVE MAJORITY NEEDED

Recent Victories at the Polls Gives Them Desired Number of Seats in Parliament.

London, Jan. 28.—It is so certain now that the Liberals will have more than a working majority that plans are already being laid for changes in the present ministry to meet the new conditions.

Liberals are meeting with better fortune in the closing stages of the elections. The position of the parties last night was as follows: Unionists, 258; Liberals, 253; Laborites, 40; Nationalists, 76.

The prospect now is that the coalition majority will eventually approach 120.

Premier Asquith came to London and conferred with the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the chief Liberal whip on the situation. Nothing is likely to be decided, however, until after Mr. Asquith's audience with the King next week, and the meeting of the cabinet council.

The Premier's first business at this meeting will be the reshuffling of the Ministers as a result of Herbert J. Gladstone's appointment as Governor of United South Africa, and the desire of one or two of the older Ministers to retire.

It is reported that the Premier will divide the question of the privileges of the Lords into two parts, the first dealing with the right of the House of Lords to veto financial bills by simple resolution; the second, which may be dealt with later, in the form of a bill based on Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's resolution, limiting the Lord's veto to ordinary legislation, under which any measure would automatically become law after it had been three times rejected by the Lords.

Lancashire Seats Filled. The polling for Lancashire's fifty-six seats has now been completed. In 1906 the Liberals won thirty, the Unionists fourteen, the Laborites twelve and the Nationalists one. This time the coalition has lost only four seats in Lancashire, which may be said to hold fast for the trade.

William O'Brien, who will enter the new House with a little party of from eight to ten independent Nationalists, will, according to his new paper, Cork Argus, do his utmost to oppose the passage of the budget, denounce the Nationalist alliance with the Liberals and uphold Parnell's policy of complete independence of English parties.

The gains made by the Unionists in the elections were much smaller than expected and should the same ratio prevail in the contests today and to-morrow when, with the exception of half a dozen scattering constituencies, the elections will be concluded, there is a possibility that the Liberals alone may have a slightly larger membership in the new House of Commons than the Unionists alone.

The numbers, however, are so close that legislation will be possible only with the consent of the Irish Nationalists and Laborites, and it is impossible to predict with any confidence the future course of events.

Budget Sure to Pass. That the budget will be passed is now certain, but after that all at present is chaos. The speeches being made in the campaign show that over the members of the cabinet are at sixes and sevens regarding the ministerial program and nothing definite is likely to be obtained regarding it until after the cabinet councils, the first of which is to be held early next week.

While parliament will assemble on Feb. 15, there seems to be little likelihood that a formal state opening by the King will occur before Feb. 25, as the swearing in of members, the election of the speaker of the House and other preliminaries are necessary before the royal inaugural ceremonies take place.

Among the new members of parliament announced today is Donald MacMaster, a Canadian. Mr. MacMaster turned a deficiency of 99 at the last general election in the Chertsey division of Surrey into a Unionist majority of 4,613. Neil Primrose, Liberal, a son of Lord Rosebery, was elected to parliament from the Wilsch division of Cambridgeshire.

The Unionists received a nasty jar at the Southern division of Durham, where P. W. Lambton was thrown out in favor of the Liberal lawyer, Evan Haywood.

R. Leicester Harnsworth, Liberal, brother of Lord Northcliffe, was re-elected at Chalfonts, defeating H. Strain, Unionist.

OFFER PRIZED BOOK AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Copy Of Work On Newfoundland, Printed In 1822, Sold In Boston Today.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 28.—The announcement that a copy of the London, 1822, edition of Whitbourne's interesting and rare work on Newfoundland was to be auctioned attracted book collectors and dealers from many parts of the country to the book sale at Libby's today.

The book is highly prized by collectors for its interesting character as well as its extreme rarity. The title of the work is "A Discourse Containing a Loving Invitation, both Honourable and Profitable, to all such as should be adventurers, either in person or purse, for the advancement of his Majesty's most hopeful plantation in the New-Found-Land, lately undertaken." Whitbourne, the author of the work, was one of the leaders in the colonization of Newfoundland by the British in the early part of the seventeenth century.

ALLEGED ABDUCTOR MAY BE RELEASED

Ferdinand Cohen, Companion Of Roberta De Janon, Is Defended.

By Heloise.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Philadelphia, Jan. 28.—The case of Ferdinand Cohen, the waiter who was the companion of Miss Roberta De Janon, the young heiress, in her sensational flight from Philadelphia and subsequent tour of the country, was called in court today for a preliminary hearing. A charge of abduction has been made against Cohen, but the impression is gaining ground that the case will ultimately be dismissed and the waiter allowed to go free.

As Miss De Janon still adheres to her story that she alone was responsible for the affair, it is believed that it would be difficult to secure conviction on a charge of abduction, which is the only charge that can be made against Cohen. Moreover, it is said to be the desire of Robert Hult, the millionaire seed merchant and grandfather of Miss De Janon, to avoid the notoriety that a trial would produce. Miss De Janon, it is reported, will be sent to a private school and arrangements made for Cohen and his family to make their future residence elsewhere than in Philadelphia.

THREE CASES WERE DISPOSED OF TODAY

And Appeal Case of Administration of Barless Estate Was Heard This Afternoon Before Judge Grimm.

Three cases before the circuit court were disposed of by Judge Grimm today and the fourth was on hearing this afternoon. The suit of Dr. J. C. Strong to recover from the defendant to carry out an agreement with regard to the re-purchasing of some shares of mining stock, was decided in favor of the plaintiff and a judgment of $500 against Mr. Palmer was ordered by the court. The motion on the part of the Rock County Sugar company to set aside the pretended service of summons was ordered and the action brought against the sugar company by John Stanovick was thrown out of court.

Divorce Decree. Mrs. Eva Thompson of Beloit was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Edwin Thompson, on grounds of cruelty and non-support. Attorney Cornelius Buckley appeared for the plaintiff. On account of the non-appearance of the defendant, O. A. Oostreich, divorce counsel for Rock county appeared for the county.

Administration Case. An appeal from the county court, which granted the administration of the estate of Thomas Barless, deceased, to D. M. Barless, was being heard this afternoon.

GERMAN BAKER HAS CONFESSED TO MANY DIABOLICAL CRIMES

E. W. Lorenz Given Preliminary Hearing in Providence—Worked Alone and Kept a Diary Of His Deeds.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Providence, R. I., Jan. 28.—If Ernest Wilhelm Lorenz, a young German baker who was given a preliminary hearing in court today on the charge of having murdered Gilbert Mann three weeks ago, is guilty of half the crimes to which he confessed and others of which he is strongly suspected, he is certainly the most diabolical fiend with white-hot poles of this city have ever had to deal.

The murder of Gilbert Mann, which occurred in the town of Johnston on January 8, is the first crime for which Lorenz is to be tried. Mann, who was an old soldier, was waylaid and mortally shot and a companion who was with him at the time was seriously wounded. Robbery was the evident purpose of the assault. Mann's companion has identified Lorenz as the murderer and the charge against the young German was strengthened when a watch positively identified as having belonged to the murdered man was found among Lorenz's effects when his room was searched after his arrest.

Lorenz denies the murder but freely confessed to having either assaulted or robbed nearly a score of women, most of the occasions having been in towns near Providence during the past fall and winter. He had a notebook in which he made a memorandum of each assault, filling in the names after he learned the identity of his victims through the newspapers. Upon his own admissions and as far as any inquiry can substantiate his statements, Lorenz was a lone operator. Though he admits he robbed indiscriminately men and women by holding them up with a gun on unfrequented thoroughfares, he frankly admits that women were his quest. He only attacked men, he says, when there were no women about. Leaving his lodgings early in the morning or in the evening he roamed the streets seeking unprotected women with felonious design. His diary which he faithfully kept is a record of success by violence in his pursuit.

The most fiendish crime which the police are inclined to lay to the door of the young German baker, but which they have so far failed to fasten on him conclusively, was the murder of Miss Laura Rogers, who was found murdered in the Jewish cemetery in the western suburbs of this city on the morning of May 11 last. The discovery of the crime was made by a passer-by, who found the dead and a mutilated body of the young woman in a clump of bushes. Broken bushes and deep marks of footprints told that the young woman had fought hard for her honor. Big cuts on her head and welts on the face disclosed that she had finally been overpowered by the use of a bludgeon. The motive of the attack was criminal passion. One of the pathetic features of the case was that Miss Rogers was to have been married within a fortnight and when she met her death she was on her way to the dressmaker to see about her wedding gown.

INTERURBAN LINE SEEKS EXTENSION

WANTS TO RUN CARS ON SOUTH MAIN STREET.

ASKS FOR A FRANCHISE

Petition for This Right is Filed With City Clerk Cummings Today.

This afternoon the Beloit, Delavan Lake & Janesville Railway company, the Interurban, filed with the city clerk an application for a franchise giving it the right to extend its railway lines in the city of Janesville, as follows: Commencing at the tracks of the company at the intersection of Eastern avenue and McKee boulevard; thence easterly along Eastern avenue to the tracks of the Janesville Street Railway company, and over the right of way thereof along Eastern avenue, Beloit avenue, South Main street, to the intersection of East Milwaukee street; thence westerly and over Milwaukee street bridge and west Milwaukee street to the tracks of the applicant on Franklin street, provided the right may be acquired by lease or otherwise from the Janesville Street Railway company.

It is understood that the right has already been obtained by the applicant from the Janesville Street Railway company, to use its right of way. If a franchise is granted, it will be necessary to lay much heavier rails and put up stronger overhead construction before heavier cars can be run over the right of way of the Janesville Street Railway company. A stronger and better bridge will have to be constructed over Spring Brook.

It is conceded that it would be much better for the city of Janesville to have the interurban reach both sides of the city. If the improvement suggested by this application is made, cars may run in on one side of the river and out on the other, as the extension proposed will constitute a loop.

The request of the railway company cannot be acted upon by the common council until an affidavit has been filed, showing that a copy of the application has been published for at least two weeks in the official paper of the city.

If the ordinance be passed, granting the railway company the privilege it requests, the improvement will not be made until all the property owners along the line of the proposed extension have given their consent. The largest ones have already done so.

The people generally favor such improvements, and are continually lamenting because Janesville does not get them, and it would seem that there would be no objection to additional street and interurban railway facilities, by any property-owner who has the interests of the city at heart.

REPUBLICAN PARTY'S LEADERS PREPARING FOR FIERCE BATTLE

Indiana G. O. P. Will Make A Strong Fight To Regain Control Of The State.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 28.—Indiana Republicans today take the first step toward getting into fighting shape for the coming campaign, which is generally expected to be one of the fiercest that this state has seen in years. In the last election the Republicans were badly worsted, the Democrats electing the governor and other state officers and practically the entire congressional delegation. In the coming contest the Republicans purpose to wage a bitter fight to regain the upper hand and will lose no time in beginning the preliminary work of the campaign.

Today and tomorrow the Republican primaries are to be held throughout the state to elect delegates to the district conventions of the different congressional districts. The district conventions will be held next Tuesday to select district committeemen and two days later the new state committee will meet in this city to organize.

All the party leaders are agreed on the fact that the next state chairman, if there is to be success, must be an able man and a man in whom the rank and file have great confidence. The names of Harry S. New and Charles F. Remy have long been mentioned in connection with the chairmanship. There has also been talk of former Governor Durlin for chairman, but the argument is used against him that he is expected to be in the race for governor, and would not be so satisfactory as a man who had no political ambitions. A strong boom has been started in favor of Henry W. Bennett, who for several years has given satisfaction as treasurer of the State committee.

M'GOVERN MAKES HIS ENTRY TODAY

FORMER MILWAUKEE DISTRICT ATTORNEY IN RING FOR GUBERNATORIAL HONORS.

THIRD IN THE LISTS NOW

Strange and Mitchell Are Both Active Candidates—Morris May Decide Not to Run.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 28.—Francis E. McGovern formally announced his candidacy for governor on the republican state ticket today.

In his announcement Mr. McGovern makes it plain that he is in absolute sympathy with the republicans and aggressive principles and measures and it is to the progressive voters of the state that he makes his appeal for support.

Mr. McGovern is the third republican to enter the contest: John Strange of Oshkosh, now lieutenant governor, was first in the field and several months ago Captain Wm. Mitchell Lewis of Racine announced his candidacy. It has been apparent for months that the real choice of the progressives was between McGovern and State Senator Thomas Morris of La Crosse.

Friends of McGovern say that he concluded that any more delay would be likely to embroil the situation, hence his announcement. Friends of Morris, men who were with him and who are in his confidence, express the opinion that he will not enter the contest. He is a hold-over member of the state senate and will probably serve out his term in that body. If Senator Morris does not enter the list, then it is expected that progressives generally will unite in support of McGovern.

SEN. MORRIS WILL ENTER RACE ALSO SAY HIS CLOSE FRIENDS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

La Crosse, Jan. 28.—The announcement that F. E. McGovern has come out for governor, when conveyed to Senator Morris, deeply interested him and while Mr. Morris expressed himself as having nothing to say, it is believed generally that McGovern's announcement will cause him to make his formal entry in the field several months earlier than he might otherwise have done.

So far as keeping him out of the race because McGovern has already entered it, it is expected that Senator Morris is more certain of becoming a candidate even than before.

NO EXTRA SESSION FOR A FOOD QUIZ

Governor Will Not Call Members of Legislature Together Unless Necessary.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—Contrary to all reports, Gov. Davidson has no intention of calling the legislature in extraordinary session to investigate the reasons for the prevailing high cost of living, nor is he considering the addition of that subject to others proposed last winter as those to consider for which a special session might be called.

At the executive office declaration was made today that the governor will call no special session of the legislature unless a valid necessity therefore appear, and that no thought had been had of further multiplying the subjects to be placed before the legislature should a special session be found necessary.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor:
Feeling that an injustice has been done me, and that the readers of your paper have been misled and formed an erroneous opinion of my character by the reason of certain articles published in the November issues of your paper, as to my having taken goods and merchandise that did not belong to me, and which I am correctly informed have in every instance been recovered, I wish to state that all the goods in my possession now or in the past was my own property, and that I never at any time had a number of miscellaneous articles belonging to anyone; that I am the owner of a lawn-mower and other tools for the purpose of destroying their identity, but for the purpose of preserving them. The gold watches mentioned are my own property, having received one as a present from my aunt and the other from my mother, one of them being to my wife, and I never admitted to the delivery of the North-Western road or anyone else to any different.

Hoping that you will publish this communication, so as to correct as far as possible the erroneous opinion formed by your previous publications, I remain,

DANCES FOR POLICY-OLDERS NOVEL INNOVATION RECENTLY TRIED BY DISTRICT MANAGER

Monroe Official of Central Assurance Co. Tries New Way of "Jollying."

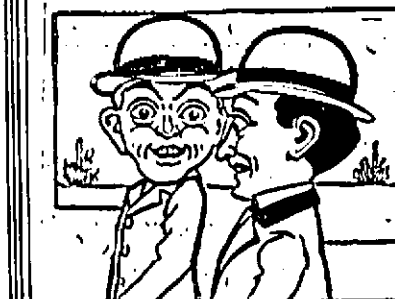

Another new, novel and from all appearances successful departure from the regular method of "jollying" the policyholders was given its first trial last night at Browntown, when Henry Greenwald, district manager for the Central Life Assurance company of Des Moines, Iowa, whose headquarters are in Monroe, gave a large and exceedingly merry dance to all the Central policyholders in and near Browntown.

A number of district managers for the company who were present stated that this affair was successful beyond all expectations and that the new method of arousing a spirit of loyalty and enthusiasm to the company would doubtless be copied widely.

Among those officials who were present and who spent the day in this city were J. J. Dubois of Milwaukee, W. F. Taylor, C. A. Douglas and L. C. Crump of Madison, Bert Thorson of Beloit, A. C. Larson, state manager, and T. N. Mattson, manager in the Western Wisconsin district.

RACES TODAY ON GAS HOUSE POND

Fast Steeds of the City Were Given a Try-Out on the Ice This Afternoon.

Owners of fast horses and their charges gathered at the gas house pond this afternoon for a series of races on the ice. George Charlton and Almeron John J. Sheridan hung up two whips as prizes for the winner and tria Fisher was to act as starter and the Moore, Charlton and Sheridan as judges. It was expected that steeds would be entered by the following: J. B. Humphrey, David B. Grillo, E. Ray Lloyd, William Hall, T. P. Burns, and J. J. Schmalley, not to mention J. E. Kennedy's "Highball," driven by Dr. Brown, and J. C. Nichol's horse, driven by Harry Perry.

SCIENCE NOTES

The pig iron product of the world during 1909, amounted to 47,550,000 tons, divided as follows: United States, 12,000,000 tons; Germany, 11,000,000; Great Britain, 9,200,000; France, 4,350,000; Russia, 2,000,000; Austria-Hungary, 1,500,000; Belgium, 1,350,000; Canada, 500,000; Sweden, 350,000; Spain, 320,000; Italy, 100,000; Japan, 40,000; other countries, 20,000 tons. In 1907 the world's production was 39,000,000 tons, according to the Scientific American.
Certain minerals exhibit the curious optical property known as catoptrism. That is to say, they show a star-shaped figure when light is reflected from them, or transmitted through them. This is best illustrated by the star sapphires, which are found in the star sapphires. Outwardly star sapphires resemble the ordinary form, and show the same phenomena under polarized light. When examined under the microscope, however, the star sapphire is found to contain the needles of quartz, and these are regularly arranged at angles of 120 degrees. To these needles the star seen by transmitted light is due. Star sapphires have been found in the State of New York, and at Burgundy, Hill, Ind.

The French Minister of Public Works has received a report from the Mont Blanc Commission relative to the project of tunneling that great rock. The conclusions of this body were mostly favorable to the experience gained in the driving of the Simplon Tunnel, and their report is that the suggestion is entirely feasible and the actual tunneling of the mountain will cost $12,000,000. The approaches and necessary cuttings will be the French and Italian railways will cost $10,000,000 more. The tunnel will be more than eight miles long, and at places will be so deep in the heart of the mountain that high temperatures will be encountered. The geological conditions are probably favorable to fairly easy excavation, and the construction problem will doubtless be one of ventilation and handling the spoil. It is possible that drainage difficulties may arise, but there is less likelihood of them than at the Simplon Tunnel, where they caused considerable trouble at times. The tunnel will shorten the distance from Paris to Geneva about 20 miles, and will enable England to reach Italy without passing through Germany and Switzerland.

In a number of the larger cities there has been noticed that there is a violent increased number of cases of cholera and this has been attributed to the custom followed in garages of emptying garbage into the sewers. It is explained that the vapor of the gasoline collects at favorable points and is expelled by the heat naturally generated in these places. A London paper of New York places a likelihood to this dangerous condition and suggests that some provision be taken to prevent it.

The Cape to Cairo Railway, according to recent reports from England, was expected to reach Bruma Mountain by the end of September, and by the end of this year it is expected that through communication will reach 2,150 miles north from Cape Town.

SCIENCE NOTES

By the use of the telephone instead of the telegraph for truly dispatching it has been found in practice by extending experiments on the Canadian Pacific Railroad to handle 50 per cent. more traffic, and in view of this the use of the telephone is to be greatly extended for this purpose. In this connection one of the large electric manufacturing companies has produced an equipment which is being rapidly accepted by Interurban lines, by which the crew of any train may put itself in direct communication with the dispatcher's office in case of any emergency. Portable telephone instruments, which are carried on the cars, and stations are located at various points along the line. The conductor or motorman can thus be in direct communication with the dispatcher by means of a microphone, and can get into direct communication at once with the dispatcher. In case of delay on the road, or an accident, these instruments are invaluable, as they enable the dispatcher to learn the particulars at first hand, and make arrangements to relieve the situation.

An interesting device is being made by the builders of electrical locomotives in the manner of mounting the motors. Heretofore it has been the custom to place the motors directly on the axles, but now they are located above the axles, thus raising the center of gravity and reducing the strain and shocks which the tracks and roadbed have heretofore been subjected.

According to the Scientific American, a very ingenious method of overcoming the friction of intermeshing gears has recently been devised. The gear teeth are electrically coated in engagement without actually contacting. The teeth of the driving gear are magnetized by means of suitable coils, while the teeth of the driven gear serve in pairs as structures for the magnetized teeth, or, of course, such an arrangement would hardly be suitable for slow, heavy work, because the cost of current would be greater than that of lubricating oil and the loss due to friction, but for high speed work the electromagnetic engagement would undoubtedly prove very advantageous.

The chairs of the dining, dining-room and lounge-rooms of the ocean-going passenger boats are usually secured to the floor, but of the dining-room chairs the most common method is from the table that many experience some discomfort. They are generally too far away, and in order to overcome this, Col. John Jacob Astor has recently designed a chair for the dining room which may be secured to the floor at any desired distance so that a passenger may arrange his chair at the beginning of the voyage and there it will remain during the entire trip. It is a chair with one chair, and it is secured in some manner and this is provided for in the Astor invention by a suction cup under the chair which takes hold of the floor. This cup will hold either on a wood or carpeted floor.

A powerful company of men of the Southwest has been organized to develop the commerce of the Mississippi River on modern lines. The organization, which has been in being for generations, will disappear, and a new system of energy and activity will take its place. The company will order the construction of bridges carrying 4,000 tons each for use on the main river between New Orleans and St. Louis and smaller tributaries for the upper Mississippi and its tributaries. The company is organized to construct the most important of these trans-shipment points with the tributary districts by means of right of way, where the transportation facilities are now inadequate.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE K. OF C.

400 GUESTS ENJOYED HOSPITALITY OF CARROLL COUNCIL.

WAS A BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Feast Was Followed by Splendid Program, and Entertainment by Enjoyable Dance.

One of the most brilliant of the social festivities of the new year was the annual banquet of Carroll Council No. 536, Knights of Columbus, held in Assembly hall last evening. The banquet was followed by a splendid program and concluded with a delightful dance. The hall was gaily decorated for the occasion and with the beautiful gown of the ladies the scene was a most brilliant one. Fully four hundred guests, including the members of the council, their friends and delegations from councils at Beloit, Rockford, Elgin, and elsewhere were in attendance.

At 7:30 the guests seated themselves and a delicious repast, prepared by Mrs. Louise Bowman and served by twenty-five of the younger men of the Council, was not before them. The tables were prettily adorned with pink carnations and ferns, white candles and sprays of southern holly. Knott & Hatch's orchestra played during the evening.

At the close of the repast, to which all had done ample justice, Grand Knight A. J. Wilbur, toastmaster of the evening, made introductory remarks, and in a few appropriate words, welcomed the guests, one and all, to the entertainment. George Hatch sang in a very pleasing manner, "Just as Long as the World Goes On." His solo was twice encored, and one of his responses was the popular topical song, "Foolish Questions."

"The Church Sufficiency" was the subject of an eloquent discourse delivered by Rev. E. A. Kelly of Chicago, one of the best known orators of the Catholic priesthood. At the pleasure of the present at the banquet and complimented the Council highly on the success of the entertainment, declaring that it was fully as delightful and successful as any given by the Catholics in Chicago. Taking up the discussion of his topic, Father Kelly said, "No Catholic has any other idea than that the church is sufficient, and among us it is absurd to 'in any way question that text.' The history of the church is co-extensive with the history of the peoples of the world. From the beginning until our day, that church has always been sufficient. Outside of the church we find that there are those who are always yearning from one faith to another to find happiness. Those outside of the church are tossed about by every fear that comes into their souls."

Speaking of other religions, Father Kelly alluded to a lecture on Buddhism delivered on a stage at which he was watching them out of Japan after being detained there for thirty days at the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war. "The speaker told us," said Mr. Kelly, "that Buddhism is derived entirely from the teachings of the Apostles and is identical except for the version of the sufferings of Christ, and Buddha represents Christ."

Father Kelly spoke of theosophy and other cults largely founded by women, which were based on the teachings of the Buddhists, wherein the smokers after peace claim to have found it. He said that these overlooked the fact that the Buddhists teach that the soul of woman never amounts to anything until it is transmigrated and becomes the soul of a man. He closed his address with an exhortation to the Catholics to get out and bring into the church all those not now within its pale.

Following Dr. Kelly's speech a vocal solo was delightfully rendered by Mrs. Charles Knott and she responded to an encore.

One of the guests of honor, Hon. Quinn O'Brien of Chicago, delivered an eloquent and brilliant address. He had a seemingly inexhaustible supply of anecdotes and delighted his audience from start to finish. Mr. O'Brien eulogized Father Kelly as the man who opened the pen that produced the wit and sound sense of the Doolley articles and as the champion of the famous Seventh Regiment.

"America," he said elsewhere, "needs to go to confession. It needs to pause long enough in its mad career to make an examination of its conscience. This nation has become so immersed in business, pleasure, politics and graft that it has become spiritually calloused. The form of spiritual worship of today is the worship of the golden calf. This is an age of commercialism and out of this are growing views that threaten the stability of this nation of ours. Look at socialism breeding its twin brood of atheism and anarchy. Standing against these is the Catholic church—the conscience of the nation. The church has sufficient and the church today has a great force of moral and economic power safeguarding America. The prior speaker has hit the keynote when he said we should go out and get those who are not of our faith. That should be the call of the age."

"The protestants do not understand us but when they do they will recognize the Catholic church as the great exponent of humanity. That is the work for us to do. One protestant writer says that the protestants never intended to remain away from the old church and that the Catholic church has gone on in its matchless march of progress and grown numerically, while protestantism has decayed. This same writer asks, 'How shall we sue for readmission into the Catholic church?' There is a note of sadness in that they think that they must sue to get back. Let them know that we believe in the great essentials of religion and welcome them back. That is the call of the age, and the call of God, and the call that brought Christ. Now man into the Catholic church. If he can say, 'being no longer a Jew, can all not join with him and say: 'Lead kindly light, lead them on.'" old and young, made merry in two steps, waltzes, quadrilles and other pretty dances. One feature of the dance program was an Irish hop. The festive hall was gorgeously decorated for the occasion, the work being done by a number of the members of the lodge. From the side walls to the center was hung a large electric star, atomizers of pink and green were suspended, and these same decorations were used in the windows and about the balcony. The walls of the room were draped with southern holly in streamers and wreaths and the railing of the balcony and the white pickets on the bandstand were twined with the same beautiful vine. Besides the regular lighting effects, added illumination was given by electric lamps with handsome colored shades. Among the members of the priesthood who graced the festivities were: Father Joseph Hanz and Father Ward of Beloit, Father M. A. Condon of Oregon, Dean Heilly, Father James McGinnity and Father W. A. Goebel.

MUCH MYSTERY AS TO GIRL'S STORY

ALLEGED ABDUCTION OF YOUNG GIRL ON MONDAY LAST.

CLAIMED THAT SHE ESCAPED

Says She Was Taken to Beloit and That She Came Home Again as Soon as She Could.

Considerable mystery surrounds the alleged abduction of May Milford, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milford, now divorced, who for the past fourteen years has made her home with Mrs. M. Conroy and daughters of Lin street, and who claims to have been taken by force from this city to Beloit last Monday night, kept in the home of John Bartlett until Tuesday afternoon, when she made her escape and returned to her home in this city. Mrs. Conroy has retained the services of Attorney J. J. Cunningham and may take action against the alleged abductors of the girl.

According to the girl's story, told this, her version of the case is as follows. Monday evening, between the hours of five and six, while she was buying some groceries in Nash's store, a small girl accosted her, saying that a man who was outside wished to speak to her. She left the store, and the unknown, whose face she could not distinguish, grasped her by the arm, placed his hand over her mouth and led her to a flat on S. Franklin street, where she saw her uncle, James Milford, and Dr. Mary E. Bartlett. Here her outer clothes were removed, other substituted, and her face muffled in a heavy veil, and she was taken on the 6:15 interurban to the Bartlett office in Beloit. Later in the evening she was taken to the Bartlett home two miles out of the city.

Tuesday noon, on the excuse that she wished to purchase some underwear, she was allowed to go to the city. Here she took the three o'clock interurban for Janesville, arrived home safely and told her story. So far as can be learned she made no outcry of protest throughout the entire proceeding, nor was she treated with anything but kindness. She states that she knows no reason why those mixed in the case should act as they did, that there was no protest made when she left the Bartlett home and that she was perfectly satisfied with her present life and did not wish to change it.

From what can be learned of others the other side of the case differs radically from the account given above. Since her childhood the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milford, are said to have been concerned themselves very little with their daughter's welfare.

They are divorced and at present the father is working on a farm about seven miles southwest of the city, while the mother is in Rockford. For the past month it is claimed their daughter has been dissatisfied with her present home and it is alleged has presented to her uncle, James Milford, to find her a better place. He has been the only one of her relatives to take an interest in her welfare and arranged to have her live at the Bartlett home near Beloit. If this be true, then the girl must have given her consent to the Beloit trip, have gone willingly, but later changed her mind and returned to Janesville. This assumption is born out by the fact that she was not ill-treated, that she made no outcry during the entire journey and that she was allowed to leave the Bartlett home without interference.

Attorney J. J. Cunningham, who represents Mrs. Conroy, stated today that adoption papers had been made out Thursday afternoon, but at the time of the alleged abduction nothing had been done. He asserted, however, that if the girl had been taken either by force or persuasion from her present home it would constitute abduction, although no steps had been taken to prosecute as yet. He stated further that in his opinion the whole proceeding was a mistaken attempt on the part of the persons interested to help the girl.

Why "Potter's Field" for Beggars.

It is not because the beggar falls to make money that he finally lands in the potter's field. "Any good, industrious beggar," says Mr. Forbes, "can and does make a great deal more money than the average workman." But the trend of the beggar is downward, and in the end he is pretty sure to become a hopeless wreck and a derelict.

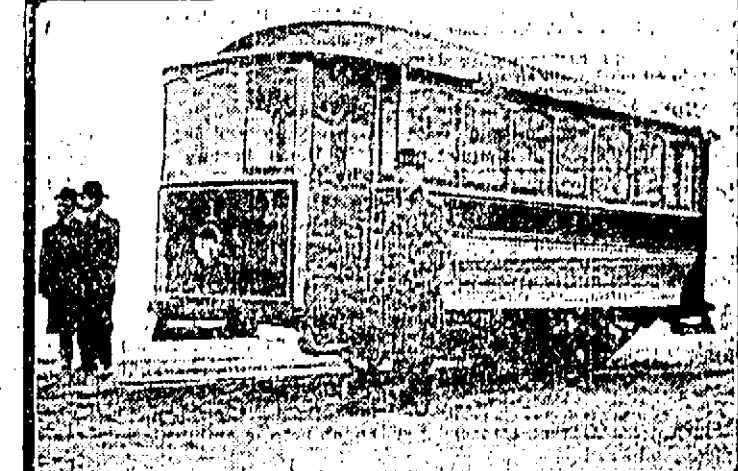

Mother's Boy.

After a man is 45 years old he quite feeling bored when people who used to know him explain that he was a "mother's boy."

IN WINTER.
No used to string her hammock
In leafy nooks so dim;
And there it was that she Whispered: "I love but thee,"
But since then he has lived to see
That she was stringing him.

First Successful Street Car Ever Run By Storage Battery.

West Orange, N. Y.—The success-memorial was conducted last week with full trial trip of Edison's latest 28-foot car on a short track, in triumph—the dry-battery street car Edison's factory yard. A speed of 15 miles an hour was maintained, in 10 minutes of the day. It sounds only one cent a mile to operate, the tenth of the overhead trolley. This crowning success comes after and the deadly third rail. The export-years of storage battery experiments.

A Wonderful Business Story

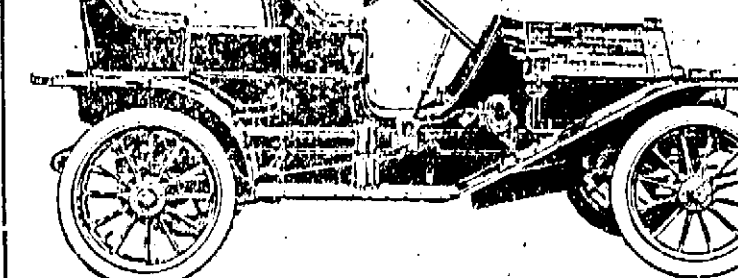

We have in a book—which we ask you to send for—one of the greatest business stories ever told. A story of how John N. Willys stepped in two years to the topmost place in motordom. Of how Overland automobiles rose in 24 months to this year's sale of $24,000,000. How a factory has grown like magic to a payroll of 4,000 men—to a daily output of 30 carloads of automobiles. And how a large part of the demand of the country has been centered around one remarkable car.

Arrived!

Models of the

MODEL 40 $1250

All the features that have made Overlands famous in other years are in the new models; with improvements where improvements were possible; such as longer, full elliptic springs; bigger wheels; greater braking surface and a more powerful motor.

The Overland is the car for YOU! It will climb any hill, travel any road and never fail you. It's good all the way through. Deliveries of 1910 Models now being made. WE ARE ALWAYS READY TO DEMONSTRATE.

SYKES AND DAVIS GARAGE Janesville, Wis.

The Discovery

Here is an outline of the story—just enough to make you want it all.

Two years ago, Mr. John N. Willys was a dealer in automobiles. There came to him one day a remarkable car—evidently the creation of a mechanical genius. This simplest, sturdiest, smoothest-running car that anyone around there had seen.

The name of the car was the Overland. And the price—then, $1,250—was as amazing as the car itself.

The sale of this car spread like wildfire. Each car sold brought a call for twenty others like it. Old and new motor car owners came by the score to deposit advance money—drawn by the Overland's matchless simplicity.

But the cars did not come. And when Mr. Willys went to the makers he found them on the verge of receivership.

The genius which had created this marvelous car could not finance the making in the face of the 1907 panic.

The New Start

Mr. Willys in some way met the overdue pay roll—look over the plant—and contrived to fill his customers' orders.

Another factory was acquired, then another; but the demand soon outgrew all three.

During the next three years these factories sent out 4,075 Overland cars. Yet the demand was not half supplied.

The $1,000 Overland

This year an Overland—better than last year's $1,250 car—is being sold for $1,000. That is because the tremendous production has cut the cost 20 per cent.

A 25 horsepower car, capable of 50 miles an hour, for $1,000, complete with lamps and magnets. Never did a man get so nearly so much for the money.

There are higher-powered Overlands for $1,250—$1,400—$1,500. They are just as cheap in comparison as the $1,000 model.

The Overlands are unique in simplicity. They operate by pedal control. A ten-year-old child can master the car in a moment.

They are made in the same factory, and by the same men as made the Pope-Toledo—$4,250 car. The reason for the price lies in the production of 125 cars per day.

MAGAZINE POSTAGE

Congress is all stirred up over the report of the senate Mr. Hitchcock, that the magazines are largely responsible for a deficit in the post-office department and all sorts of drastic legislation is being incubated to all up the rail-hole.

The government is unfortunate occasionally in having men of small caliber in positions of trust and responsibility, men who "strain at a gnat and swallow a camel," and the public service is annoyed in proportion to the amount of influence these men control.

The postmaster general is a man of this type, and in his efforts to establish a record for economy he is out with an axe for the only head visible to his obstructed vision. An eastern exchange sizes up this man correctly when it says:

"But concerning the caliber of the man now at the head of this great national institution, the recollection of certain recent history is necessary. The limitations of Frank Hitchcock's ability to comprehend public spirit and public opinion were clearly defined when this unduly exalted petty machine politician actually persuaded himself that the American people would tolerate the naming of Morgan's office boy, Curtlyou, for president by grace of Hitchcock's dictators with diverse vernal state delegations.

"Theodore Roosevelt detected the attempted treachery, cracked his whip and Hitchcock came fawning to heel, and thereafter dealt and dickered and did the routine campaign work that he was ordered to do.

"And the infinitesimal narrowness of the man is proved by his absolutely sincere belief that he nominated Taft, he elected Taft, and upon him rests the responsibility for re-electing Taft in 1912.

"The petty machinist actually believes that the nation, of 80,000,000 Americans will be guided by his allotment or refusal of some postmaster's ment to certain congressmen.

"And the worst of it all is that Hitchcock has taught Taft to trust him, and sanctioned an honorable president to sanction the Hitchcock idea of the needs and the duties of the postoffice department.

"Hitchcock 'views with alarm' a deficit of $17,479,770 for the fiscal year ended last June. He does not dwell upon the fact that the present cost of the rural free delivery approximates $35,000,000 annually, whereas postage paid on these routes aggregates only about $7,000,000, because Hitchcock knows that the American people would not consider the suggestion of abolishing that civilizing influence which accounts for more than the total deficit of the department.

"Not what this little-minded man, rattling around in an office too big for any such ward politician, does in to suggest such an advance in the rates charged for second-class mail matter as would be practically prohibitive to publications of the educational type of Collier's, the Outlook, the Independent, the Saturday Evening Post, Everybody's, Hampton's, McClure's, Success, the American, the Review of Reviews, Human Life and a dozen others that have been true teachers as well as entertainers of the American people.

"And the pettiness of the card-index person to whom President Taft, in a mistaken mood, has given his trust, is made evident by his thinly concealed certainty that the same self-specting daily newspapers of the country would welcome the opportunity to put a little more money into their pockets by helping Hitchcock to hurt the weekly and monthly magazines."

If there is any particular reason why the postoffice department should be self-supporting it is not, apparently, to the average mind, but if the government really desires to make a profitable showing it can be done without disturbing the rates of postage.

Ever since the statement was made that the people's representatives were paying 9 cents per pound for transporting mail matter the question has been frequently asked, "What sort of cheap trick is employed to make those contracts?" When a publisher can ship his magazines from New York to Chicago for less than one cent per pound why should the government pay 9 cents?

It might pay Mr. Hitchcock to take a day off and go into the matter, and when he gets through with that small item of the franking privilege and its abuses might prove an interesting study. This noncommercial postoffice cost the government $21,000,000 last year, and no account was made of it. Here is what the New York Tribune says about one item:

"An Indiana representative has just sent home, franked, sixty-one mail sacks of letters. Two venerable abuses are thus illustrated. The government should not be expected to furnish seeds in such profusion for anybody who will take them, either to plant or to feed to the chickens, and it should not be expected to deliver non-payable freight matter of that character by mail."

There are several things besides magazine postage that will bear investigation, which the card-index secretary has failed to discover.

TO ITS EVERLASTING SHAME

While Francis J. Heney was waging war against the men higher up in view in San Francisco only one newspaper stood by him in the fight, and when popular sentiment turned against Heney an effort was made to crush the paper.

The proprietor of a big department store went to a liberal loan, one day, and asked for the money under one condition, and that was to cut his advertising in the offensive paper. This was the policy pursued by men who claimed to represent the best citizenship.

Heney was defeated, and Calhoun, the street-car magnate under indictment, went scot free with a lot of other men in the 400 class. The history of San Francisco shows an open book and as disgraceful as it is public. The Philadelphia North American, in speaking of the city and of the work of Heney, the uncompromising prosecutor, says:

"He had put the fear of the God of righteousness into the hearts of all these varied villains. And they fought him in desperation. And they beat the man that they could not buy or bluff. And while Heney is not hurt, in every American city, save Philadelphia, honest, patriotic men have the right to spit upon the name of San Francisco when it is mentioned and sneer as from a nauseous smell at mention of the town that saw the light and turned deliberately back into the darkness; the town that cleansed itself and by choice turned again to wallow in its beloved filth."

"But the deliberate self-degradation of San Francisco, which will make every foreign investor shudder and extraneous of dealings there, is not due to the self-seeking combination of corporations, crooks and politicians. San Francisco is shamed in the eyes of the nation by its eminently respectable businessmen who shouted Heney's praises until he clapped his hand on the shoulder of one of their kind and called him criminal."

"These eminently respectable are the ones who beat the Heney and make the name of a city a hissing and a by-word. They are the ones who shriek against a fair because he is a 'defamer of our fair city,' a 'fearer down of the system under which we have grown great,' an 'agitator' and all the other cant phrases created everywhere who think that the way to make a city beautiful and admired by our outsiders is to spread tapestry over cesspools and whitewash dung-hills instead of sweeping and purifying them away."

"And the fools in San Francisco think they have crushed a cause because they beat Frank Heney in an election—the fools who do not know that the pendulum of right never swings backward as far as it has swung forward under the impulsion of such men! The fools—the utter fools, who do not see their city's present shame; who are not wise enough to foresee her certain ultimate redemption in this comment of Heney upon his defeat:

"The first battle for 'equality before the law' has been fought and lost, but the war against graft will continue to be waged by all true soldiers who have been fighting with me in the great cause of civic honesty, common decency and civic righteousness."

"We have been defeated in this election, but the sober, moral sense of the community will again assert itself, and San Francisco will vindicate itself before the world."

"I retract nothing I have said during the recent campaign. I have no regrets except for poor San Francisco and the many thousands of people who fought shoulder to shoulder with me in the good fight."

The people of Boston believe in doing things decently and in order. At a mass-meeting in Faneuil Hall the other night a committee was appointed and instructed to serve notice on the provision men that unless they reduced prices the people would abstain from the use of meat for two whole weeks. Most any other town would have gone out on a 20-day boycott and left the notice to take care of itself.

John Barney, a farmer in Pensaukee county, advertised for a wife and received 1800 replies, from all sorts of spinsters and widows. The woman he finally selected said in her answer that she could cook pork and cabbage and make home pleasant for a hard-working man, darn his socks, make a little fuss over him occasionally, and take off his shoes when he comes in at night tired from his work, and look nice when he takes her to see the moving pictures.

Jay Stannard Baker of muckricker fame has made a tour of the west for the purpose of roundtup the insurance agents, and incidentally to gather material for an article to discredit President Taft and his administration. A man can find most anything he is looking for in almost any community and Baker had no trouble in unearthing insurance agents and making a case, in looking for a leader for the new aggregation with hopes for success.

Trustees of the public library in Milwaukee are advertising for an attendant at the mullet salary of $10 a month. The only requisite is that the applicant must be "imposing," whatever that is. The janitor receives $30 a month and seems to be imposing enough to hold the job.

"Things are transpiring so rapidly just now that Cook is lost in the struggle, while Henry is modestly amassing all the glory. With Pinchot provided for and Ballinger in good hands, there is no reason why the meat boycotters should not continue to boycott to their hearts' content."

Barney Oldfield has a new $14,000 racing car of 200-horsepower, which he proposes to negotiate on the Florida beach at the rate of 150 miles an hour.

Dobs says that the meat boycott is "all rot," and Dobs ought to know. "Rot" or not, the American people have the microbes and the epidemic is spreading.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TAKE CARE!

At a certain point in the Alps the guides will warn the tourists against making a noise. They will tell you not to speak or sing lest the echoes start an avalanche from its delicate perch and bring destruction on the valley dwellers beneath.

It is like adding the proverbial straw that breaks the camel's back.

Likewise—

There are people bearing heavy loads whose burdens become too great when a single word or tone is added. It needs but the slight addition to crush them down.

Ever think of it?

These people are fighting against odds. The outcome is in the balance. When you throw new pressure into the scales the burden sometimes becomes too great to be borne.

For instance—

There is the wife and mother burning out her beauty over the cook stove, stooping her frail shoulders, wearing herself out on husband and children. She can stand all that. It is the woman's way to sacrifice for those she loves, even unto death.

Be careful how you add to her tremendous burden that of the complaining word.

And there is the husband. He plods along at his task of filling other mouths besides his own. He is the poorest dressed of all the family. And when the others go on a vacation he says at home.

He is glad to do it. He asks no better fate than to work for his own.

But—

If, when he has done his best, there is added the burden of dissatisfied children, it breaks the old man's heart.

In a lesser degree the same is true of the employee who is faithful and does his best to please. He expects his pay envelope on Saturday, of course, but he expects more than that. And he deserves more. He deserves a word of praise. Speak it and his burden lightens; withhold it and the load grows heavy.

Why is it that our human nature is so quick to blame and so slow to praise?

The word of censure springs naturally to the tongue. The word of cheer sticks in the throat. When we ought to keep still we are all too ready to speak. When we ought to speak, we are dumb.

Praise is the cheapest thing in the world and the scarcest.

Paradoxical as it may seem, praise costs nothing, and yet it is beyond all price. The value of words of cheer to the heavy laden soul is incalculable.

Uncle Wait THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

There's the man whose hand is clanking as a fish that lately died, and to grasp it sends a shudder percolating through your hide, and you think it feels its cold impression in HUMAN your muscles and your hands.

You wish you'd wear an oven on his blasted antartic hands. There's the man with hands so horny that they feel like chunks of slate, and when he is shaking with you, you can feel them grind and grate; and he nearly breaks your fingers, and you run them through a smelter if my hands were hard as that!" There's the man whose hands are always pawing, pawing while he talks; they are reaching for your socks; they are putting on your bosom; they are clawing on your arm, and you'd like to meet their owner on the Mrs. Guinness farm.

There's the man whose hands are always adding down into his jeans, to relieve some broken pilgrims of their rollers and palms; and such hands, that in their giving, never falter, never tire, in the golden time seeming will be twanging at a lyre!

Now Is The Time

These are the days when people are the least busy of any time of the year. Spring will soon open, and then every one will be over head and ears in work.

Many wise people take February to have their teeth put in order for next year's service. It's cheaper to attend to it NOW than to have to leave the team in the field some time when you are driven with work, and GO TO TOWN to the Dentist. If you live in town and work every day, ring me up on the phone for some evening dates. I am in my office evenings ONLY BY APPOINTMENT. Talk with me. I'm the painless man.

GRAHAM SENT TO FEDERAL PRISON

YOUTH ARRESTED HERE WILL SERVE 18 MONTHS.

FOR THE "OLEO" FRAUDS

Entered Plea of Guilty Before U. S. Judge A. L. Sanborn at Madison Late Yesterday Afternoon.

A. E. Graham, who was arrested here on the sixth of last November on the charge of selling oleomargarine under the name of pure creamery butter and who has since been confined in the Dane county jail, awaiting trial, went into court yesterday afternoon and entered a plea of guilty. U. S. Judge A. L. Sanborn committed him to the federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, for a term of eighteen months. Graham was accompanied to the courtroom by Attorney Edward Yochey of Milwaukee but the lawyer offered no motions nor suggestions. It was stated in the courtroom that Edward Klimba, who is held in Milwaukee in connection with the frauds alleged to have been perpetrated by the gang to which Graham belonged, will plead guilty on Monday next.

It was Graham's offer to sell pure creamery butter two cents below the high market that aroused suspicion here and led to his detention at the police station on the morning of November 6. He had taken a number of orders and about noon that day a consignment of 880 one-pound packages of the yellow commodity, labeled "Pure Creamery Butter," purchased by the Milwaukee Express Co., arrived at the American Express Co.'s office from Milwaukee. The stuff was promptly seized by the police and on the statements made by State Chemist Downing who was hastily summoned here from Madison, Graham was placed under arrest. Graham entered a plea of guilty, filed a petition for an immediate hearing, and was fined $50 and costs. Graham sent a telegram to Milwaukee informing a man named Davis of his predicament. Chief Appleby went to the metropolis and found Davis in a sanatorium with goggles over his eyes. The latter declared that he had no particular interest in Graham but he appeared here on the 9th of November and paid Graham's fine. At the instance of U. S. Inspector Beacher Stone of Detroit, Deputy U. S. Marshal Pugh re-arrested Graham on a federal warrant secured from U. S. Court Commissioner Stanley D. Tallman. About the same time the gang that had been receiving mail at the Plunkington hotel in Milwaukee proceeded to make themselves scarce. Attorney H. S. Sloan subsequently came here to defend Graham on the ground that he could not be re-arrested and punished for the same offense but before the hearing had been completed the federal grand jury at La Crosse indicted Graham and he was removed to Madison.

The prisoner is a young man about 28 years of age, light complexioned and sharp featured and of pleasant address. He claimed to have come east from Butte, Montana, and to have traveled extensively in Europe. The arrest and the disruption of a wholesale series of butterfrauds in the state was deemed one of the most important of the year by the federal and state authorities.

ELEVEN INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

FORMER CITY OFFICIALS, CONTRACTOR AND SUBORDINATES NAMED IN BILL

RESULT OF SEWER SCANDAL

Plot to Defraud Chicago Out of $254,000 Is Alleged—Indictment Result of Several Weeks' Investigation on Part of State's Attorney.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The January grand jury returned an indictment against 11 men—one former city official and five subordinates, a contractor and four employees—charging them with conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses and three other offenses in connection with the construction of the Lawrence avenue sewer. The alleged conspirators named in the indictment are as follows: Paul Redlesko, former deputy commissioner of public works; Michael H. McGovern, a contractor; Otto Nolhoff, his secretary; Richard Burke, city mining inspector; John McNichols, city mason inspector; Ralph Bonnell, engineer who O. K.'d the work on the sewer; Joseph Maher, city sewer inspector; J. C. Parks, assistant city engineer; Max Languth, superintendent for McGovern; Robert Green, foreman for McGovern.

Obtained $254,000. The men are charged in the true bill with having obtained $254,000 from the city through the conspiracy. There are four counts in the indictment. The bond of McGovern and Redlesko was fixed at $20,000 each, and those of the other indicted men at $5,000 each.

Redlesko surrendered in the state's attorney's office and furnished bonds. Accusation is specific.

Redlesko, McGovern and the others are specifically accused of conspiring to defraud the city by laying but one-sixth of the concrete and brick work called for in the contract for the construction of one section of the sewer. But for a final payment July 10, 1909, of $7,524.26, the men might have been saved from prosecution, according to the state's attorney's office.

In investigating the alleged fraud it was found the other payments were made more than three years ago, and therefore were nullified by the statute of limitations.

The indictment was the sequel of weeks of investigation by State's Attorney Wayman and his aids and was voted after several stormy scenes in the grand jury room.

JURORS FORCE QUIZ IN MATTER

FOUR MEMBERS 1909 BODY RE-VIVED INQUIRY AGAINST PACKERS.

LANDIS PROMPTED TO ACT

Assistant Attorney General Ellis Says
Sims Will Remain in Direct Charge,
But Assumes All Credit for Present Investigation.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Assistant Attorney General Wade H. Ellis officially announced that District Attorney Sims will remain in direct charge of the federal inquiry into the activities of the Chicago beef packers. He also stated that the government has been investigating the fresh meat industry for the past six months. Coinciding with this statement it became known that it was through information given to Judge Landis by members of the 1909 legislative body which brought forth the jurist's sensational charge to the present grand jury.

Ellis Assumes the Credit.
In his statement Mr. Ellis assumed for the administration all the credit for the present beef inquiry. He indicated that the pending proceedings are a part of a carefully arranged plan of action outlined in the office of Attorney General Wickham.
This is at variance with Judge Landis' recent charge to the jury when he declared that he personally had received the information which had caused the impelling of the jury.

Disclosure Causes Sensation.
The disclosure that four members of the grand jury of December, 1908, which started an investigation of the Chicago packers, were on the verge of giving their views on the subject a public airing, and that the present proceedings presented the only recourse for the government, created a sensation in the federal building.

These grand jurors, it is said, voted to indict the packers in an informal council of the jurors comprising the panel of the December, 1908, body.
Since the adjournment of the jury on which they sat no move has been made by the government until now to inquire further into the methods of the big packers.

A meeting of these four jurors was held recently in a Chicago hotel and it was decided that inasmuch as the price of food products was continually on the increase their views gleaned as grand jurors should be laid before the court. It is said these four men when the December, 1908, grand jury adjourned contemplated at that time making a minority report to the court, but were persuaded not to do so.

The continued inactivity of the government, however, finally caused the men to address their complaint to Judge Landis.

Judge Landis Investigates.
Judge Landis made a brief investigation following the receipt of the complaint and then verbally related to District Attorney Sims the contents of the jurors' charge.

Immediately upon hearing from the jurist the nature of the complaint filed by the jurors District Attorney Sims notified the officials of the department of justice at Washington. Then came the pronouncement from Attorney General Wickham's office which brought a judicial censure from Judge Landis in his charge to the jury.

OFFICIALS TO SELECT ARBITER.

Third Arbitrator in Railroad Controversy Not Yet Named.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Information received here is that the arbitrators selected in the Chicago switchmen's controversy with the railroads—S. E.
Heberling, vice-president of the Switchmen's union, and C. H. Gray, vice-president of the St. Louis & San Francisco—are unable to agree upon a third arbitrator. The selection of the third arbitrator, therefore, has been referred to Chairman Knapp and Dr. Neill, the mediators under the Erdman act.

It probably will be several days before they announce their decision.

PUTS BURDEN ON HITCHCOCK.

Dinger Hermann Witness Says Land Probe Was Held Up.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 28.—Col. A. R.
Greene, former special agent for the interior department, testified at the Dinger Hermann trial that Hermann told him he was powerless to act in the matter of preventing speculation in forest reserves, as the then secretary of the interior, E. A. Hitchcock, was opposed to investigating the reports of corruption in Oregon land transactions. At the time to which
Col. Greene referred in his testimony, Hermann was commissioner of the general land office.

SENATOR CULBERSON VERY ILL.

that he contemplates resigning his

DIGS UP BODY IN FRAUD PROBE.

Fifty Persons Accused of Big Insurance Swindle.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 28.—Following examination of the body of Walter E.
Hider warrants were issued for three insurance collectors in what State Insurance Commissioner Bell says will prove one of the greatest "graveyard swindles" ever exposed.

It is charged that through a conspiracy involving 50 persons, including many physicians, policies were obtained for a total of more than $100,000 on dying men.
In the Hider case the certificates indicated that he died of intestinal trouble, but it is reported that the autopsy showed advanced tuberculosis.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A.M., M.D.

Dress, to be perfectly compatible with healthy life, should fit loosely, should be light, warm, and porous, should be adapted to the season as to color, should be throughout every part of the clothing, upper as well as under, frequently changed, and should be, at all times scrupulously clean. The wearing of clothes until they are threadbare is an invariable error in all that respects the health, to say nothing of the comfort, of the wearer. All bands or corsets which in any way restrict the course of blood in any part of the body are directly injurious. Dresses dyed with irritating dyes ought to be carefully avoided. Connected with cleanliness of clothing, as a means of health, is personal cleanness. Perfect action of the skin, so essential to the perfect life, can only be obtained by thorough bathing of the whole body. The bathing ought to be performed once every 24 hours. It is best to train the body to the use of cold water through all seasons, so that the requirement for water of raised temperature may not become a necessity. The simplest and best bath is the ordinary sponge bath. Plungings, splashing, showers and the like are mere pastimes. The occasional use of the hot air or Turkish bath helps to maintain health.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist.

TOAST EASILY DIGESTED.

Toast is much more easily digested than fresh white bread, and is, therefore, commonly prescribed for the invalid. The starch is converted into sugar and the dry and hard state of the food induces thorough mastication. Both of these conditions favor easy digestion and assimilation. Contrary to the general rule that any food di-gests alone better than when mixed with another, sweet milk digests better with a little toast, which breaks up the curds, which in cow's milk are coarse and indigestible, and also allows the gastric fluid to penetrate it the more readily. The same may be true of whipped eggs and toast. The digestion of toast closely resembles that of milk and of eggs. Only the starch of the bread is improved by toasting; whole grain or gluten bread, which contains more albumen, should not be toasted.

A CHRISTMAS MORNING.

By MOLLIE K. WETHERELL.
(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

"Papa," said Lucy Tidale, "how much premium do you pay to insure this house and furniture?"

"Why do you ask, Tottie?"

"Well, I have a fancy to turn myself into a fire company. Suppose you drop the insurance and give me the money to spend on fire paraphernalia."

"I'll think about it."

Now, the fond father of this young woman, who, by the way, was a little hobnobbing, had no idea of dropping his insurance; but, having been tackling his brain for a fit Christmas gift for her, he caught on to the idea at once of presenting her with a complete fire outfit. He communicated his plan to "mother," by whom it was met with violent opposition.

"John," she said, "you should be ashamed of yourself. Last Christmas you gave her a horse on which to jump fences and things, the Christmas before a bear to pet and before that a football with which to disgrace herself. I do believe if she asked if you'd give her a lion to tame."

"She'd tame him," replied the husband decisively.

"I should think so after taming you."

"You set her the example, my dear."
"I didn't set her the example of making a man of herself. And now just as I have a reason for her to appear indelibly you encourage her to turn herself into a fireman."

"What's your reason? If it's a real reason it's the first you've been able to give me since we were married."

"It's an excellent one. I have a letter from Julia saying that young Lord Arthur Trevelyan Vane—"

"Can't you remember the rest?"

"He's coming over and will arrive about Christmas time. Julia asks that we try to keep him from being homesick at the time of all others who would wish to be with his own family."

"Turn him over to Tot. He won't have time to be homesick."

"That's just it. I wish her to appear ladylike and refined."

"Nonsense! If you want her to catch him let her do it in her own way."

"She'll never do it in that way in the world."

"Then she won't do it at all."

A few days before Christmas the fire gift was stored in the automobile house when Lucy was away, and the door was locked. This did not prevent her climbing to the roof of the little building and looking down a ventilating chimney. About the same time
Lord Arthur Trevelyan Vane Fitz-Mortimer wrote a note on crested paper that he had arrived in America and would do himself the honor to call. Being invited to spend the holidays with the Tidales at their suburban home, he wrote again that he would be on hand some time during Christmas day and partake of Christmas dinner with them.

After breakfast on Christmas morning Mr. Tidale said to his daughter:
"Come outside with me, Tot. I've got a surprise for you." And, leading her to the automobile house, he showed her what (though she had seen it all before) made her heart leap for joy.

There was everything required for the protection of the house and the lives of the family, including a canvas chute in case of their being trapped on the upper stories. There were fire extinguishers, fire ladders, hose in plenty and the "dearest" little steam fire engine about four feet long. Miss Tidale threw herself into her father's arms and covered his face with kisses.

The next thing was to get it all out and play the house was on fire.

"Mother" caught fright at once for fear her lordship would arrive and see what sort of Christmas present her daughter had received. She pleaded that the fire trial might be postponed till a later date. She might as well have tried to stop the horses of a fire brigade after the sounding of an alarm
as to deter her daughter.

Half an hour later a scene occurred that will not soon be forgotten in the Tidale family. The paraphernalia was in the yard. Mr. Tidale was operating the fire engine, sending a small stream on to the roof of the house.

The canvas chute had been fastened between a third story window and the ground. Mrs. Tidale was looking out of an "L" window where she could see everything. Lucy was nowhere to be seen.

Mrs. Tidale caught sight of an immense, dark, shadowy figure coming up the wall. Her heart sank within her. It was undoubtedly Lord Fitz-Mortimer. At that moment Miss Tidale appeared at the upper end of the chute, entered it, came down like lightning and, striking the ground, turned two or three somersaults. Her mother fell back in a swoon. Her father picked her up and, assisted by Lord Fitz-Mortimer, supported her into the house. She was not at all injured, but pretended to be so that she might hide her shame at the exposure of lingerie before the guest.

She had no sooner reappeared than Lord Fitz-Mortimer told her that many of the daughters of prominent men in England had organized fire brigades, and he insisted on trying the chute himself. He made the descent more successfully than Lucy, who further disgraced herself by accidentally —so it was supposed—turning the contents of a fire extinguisher on him, spoiling his suit and his silk hat.

Mrs. Tidale was considerably mollified when Lord Fitz-Mortimer took his leave, not till the end of the holidays, madly in love with her daughter.

MEETING TONIGHT

MOST IMPORTANT

SUBSCRIBERS AND OTHERS INTERESTED ASKED TO BE PRESENT AT SEVENTH-THIRTY.

TO PERFECT ORGANIZATION

Will Mean Much for the Future of Janesville in a Business and Financial Way.

Aside from those who were reached by the committee passing the subscription lists it is hoped that all interested in seeing Janesville take a decided step to the front in the way of including new industries to come here and in the upbuilding of the local institutions, will be present at the meeting called for this evening at seven-thirty at the assembly room of the city hall.

The committee having charge of the subscription papers were unable to see all who may wish to be party to this movement of putting Janesville upon the industrial map of the state and it is hoped that any persons who were missed by them will attend the meetings and add their subscription to those already received and take part in the deliberations of the permanent organization which will be completed tonight.

Never in the history of Janesville business industries have the citizens responded so generally to any movement as they have to this. A sum of over four thousand dollars has already been subscribed and it is expected it can be easily increased to five thousand if found that the sum is needed. The signers are from all lines of the industrial and professional life of the city and the purpose of raising the funds was to employ a permanent secretary to handle the business of the association.

Located as Janesville is, with its railway facilities, its excellent climate, good schools and churches, it makes an ideal location for new industries and the association will not have hard work to induce new corporations to consider Janesville when it comes to selecting a location for their business.

CHEESEMAKERS' AND DAIRYMEN'S MEETING

OPENED IN MONROE

Annual Convention of Southern Wisconsin Society Began With Attendance of Five Hundred.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Monroe, Wis., Jan. 28.—More than five hundred farmers and cheese-makers were in attendance at the convention of the Southern Wisconsin Cheesemakers' and Dairymen's association at Turner hall yesterday. The convention closes this afternoon. In addition to the sessions yesterday forenoon and afternoon, there was an entertainment last evening, the principal feature of which was an illustrated lecture by Prof. E. H. Farrington, of the Wisconsin School of Agriculture, on a visit to the dairy school of Switzerland and a trip through Europe. Papers on various subjects were ready and discussed today.

President S. J. Stauffacher, in his annual address yesterday afternoon, spoke of the need of a dairy and agricultural school in Green county and urged united effort to secure the same at the earliest possible date. He cited instances to show that the progressive farmer who takes advantage of new methods and makes a study of dairying derives the greatest profits, asserting that the future held prospect for profitable dairying on 2000 land. He favored payment of cheesemakers on the basis of a percentage of the returns, the buying of milk according to test instead of by the hundred in weight. He urged renewed efforts to secure a greater appropriation from the state for cheese factory instruction in the field. Members were told to closely watch the attitude of lawmakers towards the industry and denounced one-man dictatorship in congress, declaring that the American farmer was opposed to the throttling of political liberty in the law-making body.

Prof. Hart, state chemist at the university, made a demonstration of the Caswell feed, using the milk of local herds. There was a wide variance in result as shown by the test and for that reason the test by herds was not announced. The demonstration was made for the purpose of showing how it might be used in declaring dividends instead of making the division according to the weight of the milk. The demonstration and talk was the most interesting feature of the opening day.

Local farmers are getting big prices for their hay these days. Hay has been sold from $17 to $20 a ton and local parties have been paying $15 a ton and hauling the hay from the country themselves. The roads are breaking up so that it will be difficult to haul hay for the present.

TOBACCO SALES NOW

MOVE VERY SLOWLY

Many Farmers Have Begun Deliveries—Big Buyers Said to Have Left the Field.

(Editorial Tobacco Reporter.)

With the soft weather of the past few days it is safe to say that all the tobacco in the county has begun its final movement from the shed to the warehouses. Every day sees deliveries at all the tobacco receiving stations. According to the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, as the delivery of the new crop proceeds it is becoming more certain that the crop contains a greater percentage of damaged leaf than packers anticipated and as a consequence liberal deductions are demanded before the tobacco is received and paid for. Shedd buyers made the list as the most common imperfections, while moisture, heavy stems and green, immature leaf make up the other defects which the packers balk at in the settlements. Any reasonable farmer can hardly expect to be paid for any of the above described damaged class of tobacco, but the trouble comes in when an agreement is attempted for the percentage of allowances and here is an opportunity for plenty of friction and it is not at all unlikely that some litigation will grow out of receiving of the crop. Some of the packers have adopted the plan of visiting the farms, looking over the crop and agreeing upon some basis of compromise, if possible, before the tobacco is ordered in at the receiving points. In case an agreement cannot be made the contract is surrendered and the advance repaid. And such an arrangement seems to be the most satisfactory way to secure adjustments for the farmer. If the farmer is free from interest, if the farmer is free from the dealer's hands, he should be free to make the best sale possible under the first agreement.

With nearly all of the large operators now out of the buying field, the movement of last season's crop is dragging some. Small dealers are taking over a limited amount of the better grades remaining in growers' hands at prices disclosed in the following list:

Thos. Norgren, 10a at 8c; 3a at 6 1/2c.

Andrew Bergum, 8a at 8 1/2c.

N. K. Reinhardt, 8a at 9 1/2c.

For Erdahl, 10a at 8 1/2c.

E. S. Moo, 8a at 9c; 3a at 7 1/2c.

A. Gullikson, 10a at 8 1/2c; 3a at 7 1/2c.

Nels Jensen, 5a at 8 1/2c; 3a at 6 1/2c.

K. O. Ohmstad, 1a at 8 1/2c; 3a at 7 1/2c.

The monotony of small trading in old leaf has been relieved somewhat by the sale of 7000 of the 1907 packing of Hibel & McElhin at Janesville, as well as lots of the 97 packing of McGinn & McKimsey to the American Cigar company. A few out of town buyers have been in the market during the week and several minor purchases have also been made.

The deliveries at the packing points are becoming more plentiful as growers complete their stripping, but there are more or less deductions for damaged leaf when settlements are made, making the receiving of the crop any thing but a pleasant job.

Warehouse handling is going ahead with well organized forces and the packing season is well under way at most centers. McIntosh Bros. open another warehouse at Stoughton Monday. A. Colin & Co. started operations there on Wednesday.

Shipments out of storage are again renewed, 1402 cases and seven cars of bundles having gone forward from this market during the week to all points.

Herbert Holmes transacted business in Chicago yesterday.

INSOMNIA
Leads to Madness, if Not Remedied in Time.

"Experiments satisfied me, some 5 years ago," writes a Toledo woman, "that coffee was the direct cause of the insomnia from which I suffered terribly, as well as the extreme nervousness and mental depression which made life a most painful thing for me."

"I had been a coffee drinker since childhood, and did not like to think that the beverage was doing me all this harm. But it was, and the time came when I had to face the fact, and protect myself. I therefore gave up coffee abruptly and absolutely, and adopted Postum for my hot drink at meals."

"I began to note improvement in my condition very soon after I took on Postum. The change proceeded gradually, but surely, and it was a matter of only a few weeks before I found myself entirely relieved—the nervousness passed away, my digestive apparatus was restored to normal efficiency, and I began to sleep, restfully and peacefully."

"These happy conditions have continued during all of the 5 years, and I am safe in saying that I owe them entirely to Postum, for when I began to drink it I ceased to use medicine."

OZONE MILL AT THE FIRST NAT'L BANK

Little Machine Which Revitalizes the Air Installed Yesterday and Running at Full Blast.

To revitalize the air at the normal temperature and create a condition akin to the outside atmosphere after a thunder-storm, an ozone disinfectant was yesterday installed in the First National Bank. The machine is enclosed in a small box placed in the center of the room and is operated by electricity through connections with switch formerly used for an electric light. It generates the life-giving ozone without making any noise about it, and, according to the claims, keeps the whole room filled with pure air all the time.

IS DISAPPEARING VERY RAPIDLY NOW

The "Johannesburg" Comet is Soon to Sink Below the Horizon—It's Tail May Split.

Persons who have not yet been able to get a glimpse of the "Johannesburg" comet, or "A-No. 1910," will probably have no opportunity again as it is fast disappearing below the horizon. It has been visible for several days but it is losing its brightness because of its rapid travel away from the earth. According to scientists it would not be surprising if its tail split, as this is often the case. We are also told by scientists that the floods in Paris and elsewhere have nothing to do with this comet of "Hulley's," which is soon to appear.

Meteorite showers may follow the approach of Hulley's comet to the earth on May 18, about which date the contact is expected. That is the opinion of Prof. E. B. Frost of Yerkes observatory. The professor qualifies this by saying the comet may not come any nearer the earth than 14,000,000 miles on that date. At present the comet appears like a fuzzy ball. It will be visible to the naked eye the latter part of February.

MEANS OF REVENGE

OFFERED HOUSEWIFE

Dr. Wiley Tells Housekeepers How to Tell a Strictly Fresh Egg by Tests.

According to a Washington dispatch, Dr. Wiley, the pure food man, has issued another interesting test regarding eggs for the careful housewife to follow. Of course it does not apply to Janesville where the grocery man never told the buyer that an egg is strictly fresh when it is not, but in the large cities it may work havoc for the unwary dealer who tries to palm off the cold storage product laid last July as the hot fruit of yesterday or today. Dr. Wiley says:

"Drop egg into water with 10 per cent salt solution, say one cup salt to ten cups water. If the egg sinks it is fresh. If it doesn't sink it is a cold storage product. If it is a cold storage product, it has been sold down to the United States district attorney and given out as a federal warrant for the dealer who sold it to you. The chances are he will wind up in the prison at Leavenworth, Kansas."

This means that the long suffering housewife who has been duped time and again by thieving storekeepers who palm off cold storage eggs as fresh ones "just from the country" is to have her hand, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, United States chemist, names of dishonest dealers, has come to the rescue. He has discovered a "cockroach" method of telling the difference between the bogus and the genuine fresh egg, and today he gave it to the House committee which is inquiring into the high cost of living.

According to the Washington dispatch, "Dr. Wiley brought with him a large number of fresh eggs, and a large number of the cold storage variety. Dropping them into a large vessel of salt solution, the fresh eggs immediately sank to the bottom and the refrigerated ones floated on the surface. When asked how he knew the eggs were fresh, Dr. Wiley replied that one of his inspectors had watched the hens lay them yesterday."

"Dr. Wiley said that the test is sufficient to cause the arrest and conviction of storekeepers who sell cold storage eggs as fresh ones."

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Brookton, Mass., is thinking of adopting the commission plan of government.

United States Senator Flint of California will not be a candidate for reelection.

It is reported that Governor Haskell of Oklahoma intends to retire from politics at the expiration of his term of office.

President Taft and Speaker Cannon have accepted invitations to attend the annual dinner of the Republican club in New York on Lincoln's birthday.

Democrats of the Ninth Virginia district will meet in convention March 1 to name a candidate to oppose Bascom Stump, the only republican representative in congress from Virginia.

Representative Burdick of Texas, one of the most prominent democrats in the House of Representatives, predicts that the next House will be democratic by at least 100 majority.

The democratic leaders of California, recently assembled in conference in San Francisco, decided that "emanation of California from Southern Pacific rail" should be the chief issue of the coming state campaign.

The dominant faction in the Pennsylvania democracy is said to have decided upon Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer as the most suitable candidate for governor. Congressman Palmer is a resident of Stroudsburg, where he publishes a newspaper.

Congressman Gerrit J. Diakena, who has announced that he will be a candidate against Mr. Cullen for the speakership, has long been a prominent republican leader in Michigan. Prior to his election to congress he had served for a number of years in the Michigan legislature and as chairman of the republican state committee.

It is said to be the program of the democratic leaders of Maryland to submit to the voters of that state a constitutional amendment which disfranchises the negro on the specific ground of race. Those back of the movement declare that the Fifteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States is invalid in Maryland because it has never been ratified by its legislature.

Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, who is at the head of the committee to investigate the charges against Secretary Ballinger, is a native of Illinois. As a young man he decided to go west and in 1889 landed in the town of North Yakima, Wash., without a cent in his pocket. Today he is one of the leading lawyers of the state, was a member of congress for ten years and is now a member of the United States senate.

Representatives in Washington were surprised to learn of the intention of Representative Albert P. Dawson of the Second Iowa district to retire from public life at the end of his present term. Mr. Dawson, who is identified with the "standpat" faction, has been one of the conspicuous leaders in the House. He is retiring, he says, in order to go back to the practice of law and add to his income.

Congressman John A. T. Hall, who has represented the Seventh district of Iowa for twenty years, is again to have a fight for re-election. His opponent will be Judge Solomon P. Prouty, who came within forty votes of securing the nomination at the last primaries. Judge Prouty is identified with the "progressive" faction of Iowa politicians and is known as a close friend and adviser of Senator Cummins.

WITH THE FIGHTERS

Denver sports are keen for a bout between Howard Baker and Mike ("Whip") Sullivan.

Jimmy DeForest, manager of "Pat" Moore, is trying to match Moore against Johnny Cullen at 116 pounds.

Al. Kubick, Eddie Collins and George Gunther, who are now in England, are going to Russia to give boxing exhibitions.

Tommy Burns has leased a clubhouse in Melbourne, Australia, and is planning to hook a bunch of English and American fighters.

Hugh McIntosh has offered Freddy Welsh $2,000 and two round-trip fares from England to fight Johnny Summers in Australia in the near future.

LAND LOTTERY BILL

WINS IN FILIBUSTER

Foes Muster Enough Strength to Halt Its Companion Measure—Boutell Discusses Tariff.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The disposal of public lands won out in the senate notwithstanding a bitter fight led by Senators Gore and Burkett.

The bill opening up the Rosebud lands in South Dakota was attacked as a form of gambling, but was passed after a filibuster which halted the passage of a companion bill disposing of the Pine Ridge agency lands.

The fight was sprung by Mr. Gore, who offered an amendment permitting applications for the land to be made by registered mail instead of requiring a personal registration on the ground.

Mr. Burkett criticized the present system in unmeasured terms. He told of the crowding of trains and the insufficient accommodations in the frontier towns on the occasion of recent openings, and declared that they had been marked by much crime and bloodshed, due to the presence of things in the attending crowds.

Replying, Senators Gamble and Crawford of South Dakota defended the present method.

Senator Jeff Davis charged fraudulent purpose in the bill.

He referred especially to the provision authorizing payment for certain sections of the land for school purposes. He declared that much land was arid and worthless, and asserting that there was some "powerful force" behind the scheme to compel the government to buy the land.

Admitting that the Payne tariff law would have to be justified by the results of its practical operation, Representative Boutell of Illinois, a member of the committee which framed the measure, made a vigorous defense of the new law in the house.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE abruptness with which Brand separated from Nolan as they appeared aroused the suspicions of both the judge and his lobbyist satellite. However, their little laughter the pronounced seriousness of the conversation they had interrupted. In the mind of each ran the thought that the Advance's proprietor and his editor had been discussing the proposal to elect Nolan to the Oak Door club. Even a failure in this laudable venture they would have considered a serious setback, but probably had they an intimation regarding the story Brand wanted to write and the effort that was to be made to detect the judge in offering a money bribe they would have exhibited less of the easy assurance that marked their entrances into the drawing room.

"Mr. Nolan, I'm afraid I must be going," said Bartelmy. "I hope to see you at my house soon, and you, too, Wheeler."

Nolan rose from his chair. "Judge, can you spare me a few moments?" put in Brand resolutely.

The judge gave a look of surprise. "Certainly, my boy; certainly. Will you excuse me?" turning to Nolan.

Nolan, surprised at the readiness of Brand to begin on the plan to outstep Bartelmy, readily assented and proceeded into the library with Dupuy.

"Well, Wheeler, what can I do for you?" asked Judge's father.

The young man stepped close to the other and faced him squarely. "Judge, how about your latest decision in the Lansing iron case today?" he asked.

Bartelmy started back in surprise. "It was in accordance with the statutes and the constitution," he finally said.

"The supreme court of the United States was at variance with you in a similar case," advised Brand.

"Sir," indignantly, "I decline to discuss out of court questions relating to my conduct on the bench."

The judge moved as though to go. "You weren't so particular this morning."

Bartelmy began to lose his confidence, every pose.

"I fail to comprehend you," he answered.

"Early this morning, between 1 o'clock and 3," went on the unrelenting editor.

The judge turned his head to one side and tugged nervously at his gray beard.

"A reporter for the Advance saw you come out of your house at four minutes to 1 and walk to a house on Washington avenue that belongs to the attorney for the Lansing iron corporation."

Bartelmy turned his back on Brand, a furtive look coming into his eyes as he did so.

"You knocked at the servants' door, Judge," continued the editor. "This man admitted you. One hour and fifty-seven minutes later you left that house by the same door and returned home tranquilly on foot. You kept your coat."

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all good feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though now life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."

Mrs. W. S. Ford, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md. The most successful remedy for all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and today is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

"I was the reporter, Judge Bartelmy," ery and ambition. Few could overcome it honestly; few over had, ever would. And I am rich—

"Well, what do you propose to do?" he asked of Brand, putting it up to the other man to lead the conversation at this point, just as a clever tactician should.

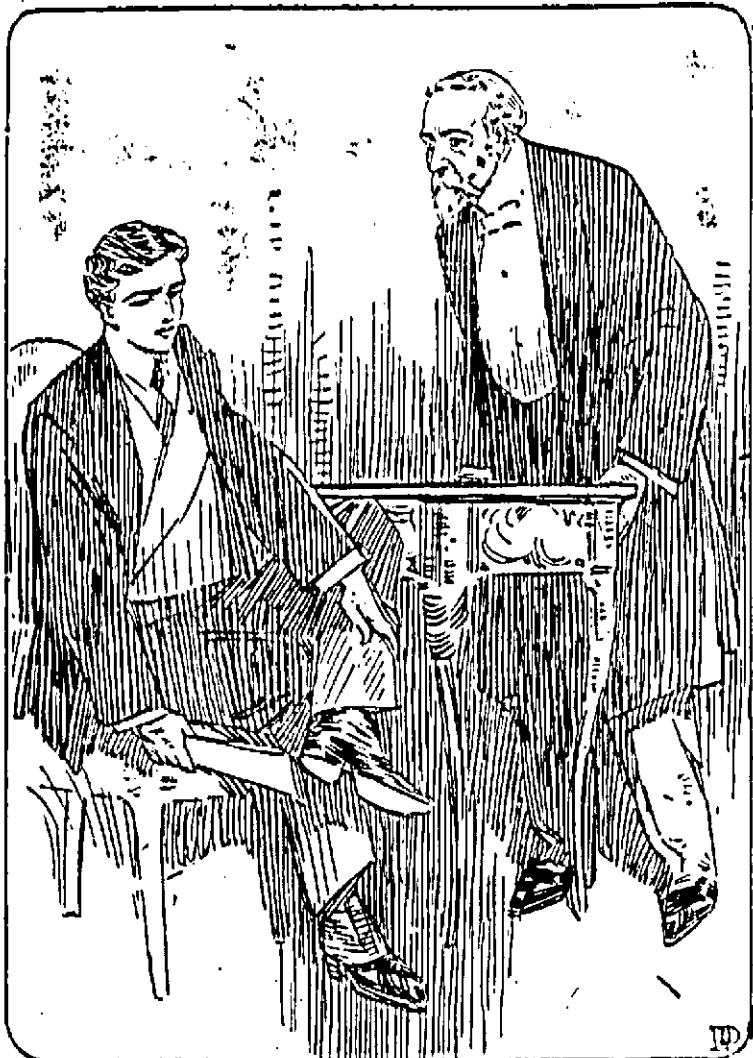

"That depends," answered Brand doubtfully, a trifle weakly, sinking thoughtfully into a chair beside a table.

Bartelmy detected at once the note of doubt and weakness in Brand's reply and questioned to himself what it might portend.

"On what?" asked the judge carefully, trying to analyze the mental processes of his opponent, who stared at him across the table.

Brand spoke deliberately, in low voice. "On whether you're willing to meet me halfway."

Bartelmy's hopes immediately surged high. In, as plain a bid for a price as he had ever heard, and he had heard them before. He gazed, reassured, at the young man's earnest face. In, how skillful he was, this young Brand! How he had deceived every one! Yes, he was just like some of the other re-collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you were a slouching hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision revering on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lansing iron case and freeing out the small stockholders in favor of the lenders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless—Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—poverty and ambition."

You Serve Good Health With Bonano

It agrees with your household—big folks, baby folks and all. A bracing, pure-food fruit drink; warming, palate-tempting, energy-building.

It's the drink to do big things on. Puts you on your mettle—gives you stamina, and stick.

It supports nobly—a prop that does not palsy; a stimulant that does not sap. BONANO is not a "near" coffee, but a wholesome table drink in a class of its own, with its own flavor, its own spicy odor, its own full, satisfying "body."

Try BONANO a week or two. You will like it better and better every day as you feel your health improve, your nerves get firm, your brain grow clear, your digestion become right—when you learn what it is to work like a giant and sleep like a baby.

BONANO can easily be made to suit each individual taste by boiling it more or less or using a larger or smaller quantity than directions call for. You can easily find the way you like it best.

BONANO is just the appetizing goodness of fully matured, tropic-ripened bananas—the choicest that grow—dried, granulated—served as a golden brown, aromatic beverage. No adulteration, no artificial coloring or flavor.

Your doctor will tell you that bananas are high in food value, that they are easily and quickly digested by the weakest stomach without over-taxing, that they help in assimilation and digestion and are mildly corrective, that they contain or develop no poisons; and thus BONANO is pure and wholesome and can be given in perfect safety to an unwearied babe.

For Insomnia: Those who are unable to sleep find that a before-retiring cup of BONANO promptly induces restful, refreshing slumber.

BONANO is an economical drink, too. It goes twice as far as coffee. It requires little sugar because of the fruit-sweet it contains. A 25-cent can of BONANO makes 75 cups of the best hot drink you ever tasted.

Ask your grocer for BONANO. For sale by

THE AMEBA A THINKING ORGANISM?

An animal is a stomach with certain other organs attached. It has been well said. The ameba, the primary animal representing the blood cells of which every tissue of the body is built, is viewed from the physical side, an organism for procuring and digesting food; yet the eminent biologist, Cope, says the ameba adapts means to ends in securing a meal with as much precision as does a statesman in organizing a government. Now Prof. James, the famous psychologist, says that thought is the adaptation of means to ends. Hence, viewed from the psychological side, the ameba is a thinking organism. It is, in fact, impossible to distinguish between the digestive function and the thought function. And as there are no powers in the organized body which do not exist in embryo, in the single cell, and contrariwise we can determine the elemental functions of the complex organism by examining those of the primary cell, we find a most intimate relation between food and thought. Each influences the other directly. For perfect digestion we need good mental conditions. Avoid worry and hurry before and during meals.
